Who do you believe should hold CSO's accountable in Lebanon's crisis context?

- Public: 42.4%
- Donors: 31.1%
- Government: 13.8%
- Mainstream independent media: 6.3%
- Public media institutions: 0.3%
- Religious leaders/institutions: 0.2%
- Political parties: 0.6%
- Other: 0.8%

Public Perception of Civil Society Organizations Survey (n=1,200)
Do you think CSOs should be allowed to be affiliated to political parties?

- Yes: 4.1%
- No: 92.1%
- Do not know: 3.3%

PUBLIC PERCEPTION OF CIVIL SOCIETY ORGANIZATIONS SURVEY (n=1,200)
Level of trust in CSOs according to affiliation

Local non-affiliated CSOs: 70.1%

Internationally affiliated CSOs: 26.2%

Sectarian affiliated CSOs: 1.9%

Politically affiliated CSOs: 1.8%

Public Perception of Civil Society Organizations Survey (n=1,200)
Do you agree with the statement "Most CSOs are corrupt?"

- Do not agree: 10.7%
- Neutral: 15.4%
- Somewhat disagree: 31.3%
- Somewhat agree: 30.2%
- Fully agree: 12.5%

Public Perception of Civil Society Organizations Survey (n=1,200)
Role and Performance of CSOs

CSOs are offering critical services and aid that the government is failing to offer

12.3% Do not agree
8.5% Somewhat disagree
16.5% Neutral
45.1% Somewhat agree
17.6% Fully agree

CSOs are the only entities that can be trusted to help everyone (without political or sectarian preference)

17.6% Do not agree
20.3% Somewhat disagree
17.4% Neutral
33.6% Somewhat agree
11.1% Fully agree

Public Perception of Civil Society Organizations Survey (n=1,200)
CSOs are less corrupt than political parties.

CSOs are a key driver of reform in a number of areas, including accountability, transparency, and human rights.

Public Perception of Civil Society Organizations Survey (n=1,200)